INTRODUCTION

This beautiful prairie property lies at the end of a quiet dirt road - just .75 miles from a paved County road and only 4 miles from downtown Livingston. It is a horse-friendly property with few neighbors and big views. This kind of privacy with easy access to town and protective covenants that allow for horses is hard to come by. Slaughterhouse Creek meanders across the southern third of the lot. It is mostly a dry creek that may see water during spring runoff. The creek bed is a significant wildlife habitat and a corridor for deer, antelope, and the occasional herd of elk. The land sits above a major underground aquifer and the nearby wells are strong producers. Build your dream home here, with a separate barn/shop and an apartment above. The covenants also allow this lot to be subdivided into up to 5 lots - providing optionality and greater long term value. This is truly a one of a kind property. Listing Agent is the owner of this property via a holding company.
