INTRODUCTION

There's a quiet kind of confidence in single-level homes like this—no need for fanfare. Just thoughtful design, well-placed upgrades, and a sense of balance that welcomes you in and makes you want to stay. From the formal entry, you're greeted by subtle sophistication: tall ceilings, rich LVT flooring, and natural light that knows where to land. Step inside to a smartly designed drop zone entry, perfect for organizing daily essentials with built-in storage. At the front of the home, a spacious office offers the flexibility to work, create, or retreat—tucked just enough away to focus, but still connected to the rhythm of the house. The kitchen is both polished and practical, anchored by a custom granite island and complemented by a generous walk-in pantry that makes organization feel effortless. It's a layout that works without needing to explain why. The stainless steel kitchen appliances convey to the new owner, so you can just think about moving in. Two distinct bedroom suites offer flexibility—whether for multi-generational living or long-term guests, each space provides privacy, walk-in closets, a full bathroom, blinds, and its own sense of calm. Add in upgrades like dual-zone heating and cooling, added insulation on interior walls for sound dampening, and a Kinetico water system, and you begin to notice: everything here has been considered, not shouted. The mudroom is just off the garage—ideally placed for everyday convenience—and the dedicated laundry room adds functionality with a utility sink and even more storage. The backyard is low-maintenance and ready for any season. The finished three-car garage provides space for vehicles, hobbies, and storage—with intention. And the location, just a block from the park, quietly seals the deal. (photos are virtually staged and the master bedroom drapes are virtual) (3rd bedroom is non-conforming due to no door or closet)

GALLATIN COUNTY

Located in a sweeping valley in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, Gallatin County is the most populated and fastest growing county in scenic southwest Montana. Gallatin Valley has a rich history. Native americans referred to this area as the “Valley of Flowers”. The name seems appropriate because of the great variety of wild flowers found on the mountainsides as well as in the valley. Gallatin Valley derives its name from the Gallatin River, one of the forks of the Missouri river that rises in Yellowstone Park. The Gallatin river, Jefferson river, and Madison river all merge at the town of Three Forks to form the Missouri River. Lewis and Clark named the rivers on their famous expedition to this part of the world in 1805.

There are approximately 1,682,048 acres(2,500 square miles) in Gallatin County including over 16,500 acres in surface water. Approximately 800,000 acres in Gallatin County are owned by the public and managed by several local and national agencies including the Bureau of Land Management, U.S. Forest Service, National Park Service, Montana Fish Wildlife & Parks, Montana Department of Transportation, Department of Natural Resources & Conservation and various local governments. The U.S. Forest Service is the largest land holder in Gallatin

County, currently managing over 665,000 acres. In addition to the Forest Service, various state departments manage approximately 61,000 acres. The Bureau of Land Management holds just over 9,000 acres and an additional 1,600 acres belongs to local governments. On the southern edge of Gallatin County is Yellowstone National Park. Yellowstone National Park is one of the world’s primary wildlife preserves and has the greatest concentration of geysers and hot springs in America. Yellowstone National Park is 2,219,789 acres in size(Larger than Rhode Island and Delaware combined). Over 97,600 acres of Yellowstone National Park is located within Gallatin County.
