INTRODUCTION

Just blocks from downtown Livingston's charming shops and restaurants and set on an oversized lot (14,000sf), this roomy, light filled home offers such a good blend of privacy, space and convenience. Coming into the house, the first thing one notices is the beautifully landscaped, big, fully fenced garden. Carefully tended over the years that this has been a much loved family home, there are gorgeous lawns and flowerbeds, raised beds full of fruit and rambling vines on the trellises. There is probably not another home in Livingston that has such a sense of retreat from the bustle of the town. Inside, there is an easy, open floor plan that works so well either for indoor/outdoor summer entertaining or holiday gatherings in the winter. There are three bedrooms and one full bath on the main level and a non conforming bedroom with it's own three quarter bath in the basement. Upstairs, the large, comfortable family room is the heart of the house where everyone gathers: filled with light from all the big windows, there's space enough for movie nights, game tables - even a random treadmill or Peleton! Sitting in the sun room which overlooks the garden is like being in a tree house with all the dappled light coming through the spreading branches and leaves of the tall trees. There are options here: reimagine the clean lines of this well cared for 1970's home or - start over: build your dream home and have an investment property next door (remember, there are 4 city lots here). In either case, you will own a property in one of south west Montana's most sought after communities: Livingston, a city rich in history and culture with a vibrant downtown area and abundant recreational opportunities up and down the Yellowstone River, still is a small town with a community of people who care deeply about where they live. So call your realtor, take a look in person or we'll be glad to send you a video tour. Could this be home?
