INTRODUCTION

This 150 acre farm is a truly spectacular rural getaway, while still being less than 10 minutes away from the Bozeman Yellowstone International Airport. The farm borders the East Gallatin River on the East side and is strategically farmed for the enhancement of wildlife management. It is planted in both alfalfa hay and sorghum to create very productive pheasant, quail, grouse, turkey, ducks and white tail habitat. Check out all the game pictures. These could be your kids and grandkids next year. There are no hunting restrictions but the Conservation Easement does not allow for commercial outfitting. Many of the surrounding large pieces of farmland are under Conservation Easement, yet this 150 acre property allows for generous build opportunities away from neighbors and close to the animals and birds. Build your residence and buildings overlooking the East Gallatin River and have a clean view of the majestic Bridger Mountains. Permitted uses include agricultural activities, livestock and planting, right to restore, enhance and develop water resources, including ponds, does not limit the the water rights on the property. Current right to build a single family residence with an associated garage and storage shed, plus other non-residential structures such as barns, stables, corrals, grain silos, hay and feed storage buildings, fencing, duck blinds, warming huts. There is roughly $45K in farm revenue from hay sales so this would make a great 1031 exchange property.

GALLATIN COUNTY

Located in a sweeping valley in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, Gallatin County is the most populated and fastest growing county in scenic southwest Montana. Gallatin Valley has a rich history. Native Americans referred to this area as the “Valley of Flowers”. The name seems appropriate because of the great variety of wild flowers found on the mountainsides as well as in the valley. Gallatin Valley derives its name from the Gallatin River, one of the forks of the Missouri river that rises in Yellowstone Park. The Gallatin river, Jefferson river, and Madison river all merge at the town of Three Forks to form the Missouri River. Lewis and Clark named the rivers on their famous expedition to this part of the world in 1805.

There are approximately 1,682,048 acres(2,500 square miles) in Gallatin County including over 16,500 acres in surface water. Approximately 800,000 acres in Gallatin County are owned by the public and managed by several local and national agencies including the Bureau of Land Management, U.S. Forest Service, National Park Service, Montana Fish Wildlife & Parks, Montana Department of Transportation, Department of Natural Resources & Conservation and various local governments. The U.S. Forest Service is the largest land holder in Gallatin County, currently managing over 665,000 acres. In addition to the Forest Service, various state departments manage approximately 61,000 acres. The Bureau of Land Management holds just over 9,000 acres and an additional 1,600 acres belongs to local governments. On the southern edge of Gallatin County is Yellowstone National Park. Yellowstone National Park is one of the world's primary wildlife preserves and has the greatest concentration of geysers and hot springs in America.
