INTRODUCTION

Built by Dovetail Construction and set on one of the largest in-town lots in Bozeman, this custom white farmhouse is a genuinely uncommon find. Adjacent open space buffers the property on one side, extending the sense of privacy and framing sweeping views across multiple mountain ranges all while sitting minutes from Downtown Bozeman and Bozeman Yellowstone International Airport. The architecture is classic farmhouse wraparound porch, clean lines, real presence on the street but the interior reflects a more current sensibility. Over 3,600 square feet of well-considered living space across four bedrooms and three and a half baths, with a floor plan that lends itself to easy main-level living. The main-level primary suite, generous common areas, and well-proportioned rooms mean the home lives comfortably day to day without needing to navigate stairs for much of anything. An expansive upstairs family room adds flexibility for guests, hobbies, or a dedicated retreat. Built-in radiant heat provides reliable warmth through Montana winters, and the current owners have added mini-split AC units throughout, keeping the home equally comfortable through summer. The oversized heated garage is worth a closer look two front-facing doors plus a double door on the back side make for easy drive-through access and genuine versatility, whether that's for vehicles, a workshop, or serious storage needs. The outdoor spaces are equally considered. A large fenced yard, wraparound porch, and that rare adjacency to open space create an outdoor living experience that most in-town properties can't replicate. The backyard shed is a flexible bonus equally suited as a gardening and storage hub, a she-shed, or a playhouse depending on who's using it. The mountain views are a constant backdrop. The location adds another layer of quiet that's worth noting. Positioned on a private cul-de-sac, with the adjacent street also dead-ending rather than cutting through, through-traffic here is essentially nonexistent. Yet schools, parks, and local amenities are close at hand, and Downtown Bozeman's restaurants, shops, and events are just minutes away, as is access to the region's year-round outdoor recreation. A custom home, a landmark lot, and a location that holds its value. Opportunities like this don't repeat themselves often in this market.

GALLATIN COUNTY

Located in a sweeping valley in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, Gallatin County is the most populated and fastest growing county in scenic southwest Montana. Gallatin Valley has a rich history. Native americans referred to this area as the “Valley of Flowers”. The name seems appropriate because of the great variety of wild flowers found on the mountainsides as well as in the valley. Gallatin Valley derives its name from the Gallatin River, one of the forks of the Missouri river that rises in Yellowstone Park. The Gallatin river, Jefferson river, and Madison river all merge at the town of Three Forks to form the Missouri River. Lewis and Clark named the rivers on their famous expedition to this part of the world in 1805.

There are approximately 1,682,048 acres(2,500 square miles) in Gallatin County including over 16,500 acres in surface water. Approximately 800,000 acres in Gallatin County are owned by the public and managed by several local and national agencies including the Bureau of Land Management, U.S. Forest Service, National Park Service, Montana Fish Wildlife & Parks, Montana Department of Transportation, Department of Natural Resources & Conservation and various local governments. The U.S. Forest Service is the largest land holder in Gallatin

County, currently managing over 665,000 acres. In addition to the Forest Service, various state departments manage approximately 61,000 acres. The Bureau of Land Management holds just over 9,000 acres and an additional 1,600 acres belongs to local governments. On the southern edge of Gallatin County is Yellowstone National Park. Yellowstone National Park is one of the world’s primary wildlife preserves and has the greatest concentration of geysers and hot springs in America. Yellowstone National Park is 2,219,789 acres in size(Larger than Rhode Island and Delaware combined). Over 97,600 acres of Yellowstone National Park is located within Gallatin County.
