INTRODUCTION

Twenty minutes from Bozeman. An hour and a half from Yellowstone National Park. A lifetime from ordinary. Sitting on nearly 23 acres of Montana mountain terrain, this handcrafted log home delivers the setting most people only dream about sweeping Bridger Mountain views, two on-site water wells, and a front-row seat to some of the most celebrated recreational country in the American West. Built in 2001 with an eye toward both craftsmanship and livability, the home opens to a soaring great room where floor-to-ceiling windows pull the landscape inside. A wood stove anchors the space on crisp Montana evenings, while solid wood cabinetry and updated stainless appliances make the kitchen equally suited for a quiet weeknight or a full house after a day on the mountain. Step onto the covered balcony to take in the views, or drop down to the covered patio and ease into the hot tub it works beautifully in any season. Four bedrooms and three bathrooms are arranged with genuine privacy in mind. Two primary suites each offer en suite baths: one in a loft overlooking the great room and mountains beyond, and one conveniently on the main floor. The fully finished lower level functions as a guest suite or multi-generational retreat, complete with two additional bedrooms, a bathroom, and a kitchenette. The property is thoughtfully equipped for horses or livestock, featuring cross fencing, a horse shelter, and a small barn that add both function and flexibility to the land. Two wells on the property aren't a footnote they're infrastructure. Whether you're thinking horses, irrigation, livestock, or simply the peace of mind that comes with self-sufficiency, that kind of resource matters in Montana. World-class skiing, blue-ribbon trout fishing, hiking, hunting, and the unmatched draw of Yellowstone are all within reach. Bozeman's airport and amenities are twenty minutes away close enough to be convenient, far enough to feel like you've truly escaped. This is Montana the way it's supposed to be.

GALLATIN COUNTY

Located in a sweeping valley in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, Gallatin County is the most populated and fastest growing county in scenic southwest Montana. Gallatin Valley has a rich history. Native americans referred to this area as the “Valley of Flowers”. The name seems appropriate because of the great variety of wild flowers found on the mountainsides as well as in the valley. Gallatin Valley derives its name from the Gallatin River, one of the forks of the Missouri river that rises in Yellowstone Park. The Gallatin river, Jefferson river, and Madison river all merge at the town of Three Forks to form the Missouri River. Lewis and Clark named the rivers on their famous expedition to this part of the world in 1805.

There are approximately 1,682,048 acres(2,500 square miles) in Gallatin County including over 16,500 acres in surface water. Approximately 800,000 acres in Gallatin County are owned by the public and managed by several local and national agencies including the Bureau of Land Management, U.S. Forest Service, National Park Service, Montana Fish Wildlife & Parks, Montana Department of Transportation, Department of Natural Resources & Conservation and various local governments. The U.S. Forest Service is the largest land holder in Gallatin

County, currently managing over 665,000 acres. In addition to the Forest Service, various state departments manage approximately 61,000 acres. The Bureau of Land Management holds just over 9,000 acres and an additional 1,600 acres belongs to local governments. On the southern edge of Gallatin County is Yellowstone National Park. Yellowstone National Park is one of the world’s primary wildlife preserves and has the greatest concentration of geysers and hot springs in America. Yellowstone National Park is 2,219,789 acres in size(Larger than Rhode Island and Delaware combined). Over 97,600 acres of Yellowstone National Park is located within Gallatin County.
